

Pharaoh and the Ten Plagues

God tried to convince Pharaoh to let the Israelites leave Egypt by causing ten plagues.

To learn about the plagues, fill in the blank with the name of the picture next to it.

When Pharaoh  refused to let the Children of Israel leave Egypt, Moses turned the Nile into blood . When that didn't work, Moses sent hundreds of frogs  into the city. Still Pharaoh  didn't listen, so Moses sent gnats  to cover the people  and animals .

The gnats  didn't work, so Moses sent flies  to fill the houses of Egyptians. Pharaoh  didn't listen, so Moses sent a plague to kill the animals  of the Egyptians. That didn't work either. Next, Moses took ashes from a fire  and threw them in the air to give people  boils.

Pharaoh  didn't listen again. So Moses made hail  and lightning fall from the sky. Next the plague of locusts  blew in. The ninth plague covered the Egyptians in darkness . Lastly, because Pharaoh  refused to listen, Moses told the Egyptians that their first born son  would not live. Yet, still Pharaoh didn't listen and refused to let the Israelites leave Egypt.